tions.

They were met by an irate father, who, after expressing himself quite freely, denied that the newspaper had the right to declare his daughter married by simply shifting an engagement notice into the marriage column.

He said that when his daughter was married in April next it would be time enough for the newspapers to announce the fact.

lice at Deputy Attorney-General Shepard's suggestion.

Those who knew the great sympathy for McKane existing among his followers were not slow to catch the significance of the detectives presence in the crowd. Col. E. C. James appeared to argue the motion for a certificate of reasonable doubt, and began to present his plea immediately after the Town Board's matter was disposed of.

Col. James first stated that he was there to apply for a certificate of reasonable doubt, under section 527 of the Code of Criminal Procedure. He would, he said, present a brief containing citations bearing on the case. The arguments had been brought before Justice Gaynor and Justice Bartlett had signified their unwillingness to act in the matter.

The case, counsel continued, had at-

The case, counsel continued, had attracted widespread attention, and caused tracted widespread attention, and caused great public excitement.

"I shall, Your Honor, present the case only in its legal aspect, and I am sure that Your Honor 'will decide the matter from a purely legal standpoint."

Col, James drew the Court's attention to the fact that it was a new law under twhich McKane was convicted; in fact, it was the first case ever tried under the law.

"The law was passed," continued Col. James. "In 1892, and the amendment on which the conviction was predicted was passed Oct. 31, 1893. The alleged offense was committed in the month of October."

was committed in the month of October.

Col. James, after reviewing the case from all points and presenting to the Court several minor reasons for granting McKane a certificate of reasonable doubt, made a telling point.

He called the Court's attention to the fact that under existing laws had McKane personally mutilated, destroyed or made away with the registry rolls, he could only be punished by imprisonment for one year or a fine of $500 while for one year or a fine of $500 while for only being an accessory, as appeared during the trial, he can under the amendment to the law of 1892 be sentenced to six years in States prison. The law was unreasonable and inequitable, and therefore unconstitutional.
